DETAILED ACTION

Notice to Applicant

1. This action is responsive to Information Disclosure Statement, file on January 4, 2002.
2. Claims 1-35 have been considered. Claims 1, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 17, 18, 19, 20, 25, 26, and 31 are independent claims.

Priority

3. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.
4. This application claims benefit of provisional patent application 60/296,095 under 35 U.S.C. 119(e).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1-5, 7-15, 17-19, 25-28, 30-33, 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Oracle Forms ® Advanced Techniques (“Oracle”), Ch. 10, pgs. 1-18, © 1996 Oracle Corporation (available at <http://mates.ms.mff.cuni.cz/oracle/doc/forms45/at/ch10.htm>).

Independent Claims 1, 7, 9, 10, 11, 17, 19, 25 and Dependent Claims 2-5, 12, 14, 15

Oracle teaches a method and computer readable medium in a data processing system for processing a document containing an embedded object having a first format corresponding to a first program (i.e. OLE) (see pgs. 2-3), the method comprising the steps of:

determining whether the first program is an unavailable program (see pg. 17, heading: Converting OLE Objects – 1st paragraph → OLE object conversion is used for editing OLE objects when the OLE server application that originated an OLE object is not available);

when it is determined that the first program is an unavailable program, converting the embedded object into a second format different from the first format that is suitable for use with a second program that is available on the data processing system (see pg. 17 and 18, headings: Converting OLE Objects and Converting Embedded Objects → the “Convert To” command permanently alters the format of the object to the selected type for automatic identification of the selected type);

receiving an indication of a third format from a user (see pg. 18, step 3);

converting the embedded object into the third format (see pg. 18, step 4); and storing the embedded object in the third format (see pg. 18, step 5).

Claim 13

Oracle teaches determining which of the plurality of programs are available on the data processing system (see pg. 18, step 3) and displaying the associated formats of the available programs to a user (see Figure on pg. 17).

Independent Claims 8, 18, 26, 31 and Dependent Claims 27, 30, 32, 35

Oracle teaches a method in a data processing system containing a plurality of programs, each with an associated format, the data processing system for processing a document containing an embedded object having an originating format corresponding to an originating program (i.e. OLE) (see pgs. 2-3), the method comprising the steps of:

determining whether the originating program is unavailable (see pg. 17, heading: Converting OLE Objects – 1st paragraph → OLE object conversion is used for editing OLE objects when the OLE server application that originated an OLE object is not available);

when it is determined that the originating program is unavailable, determining which of the plurality of programs are available on the data processing system (see pg. 18, step 3), displaying the associated formats of the available programs to a user (see Figure on pg. 17), and receiving an indication of a selected one of the displayed formats from the user (see pg. 18, step 3); and converting the embedded object into the selected format (see pg. 18, step 4).

Claims 28 and 33

Oracle teaches retrieving the indication from storage (see pg. 17 and 18, specifically step 5 → the “Convert To” command permanently alters the format of the object to the selected type for automatic identification of the selected type and is stored and recalled from storage).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 6, 16, 20, 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oracle Forms ® Advanced Techniques ("Oracle"), Ch. 10, pgs. 1-18, © 1996 Oracle Corporation (available at <http://mates.ms.mff.cuni.cz/oracle/doc/forms45/at/ch10.htm>), in view of Francis et al. ("Francis"), U.S. Patent No. 6,182,092.

Claims 6 and 16

Oracle teaches the method and computer readable medium of independent claims 1 and 11, but does not specifically teach converting the embedded object into an intermediate format.

However, Francis teaches converting OLE documents and objects into an intermediate format as a preprocessing step (see Fig. 6 and col. 14, lines 24-40) for the purpose instantiating the output, and hence, smoothing the transition between different formats.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the teaching of Oracle with the teachings of Francis to include converting the embedded object into an intermediate format for the purpose instantiating the output, and hence, smoothing the transition between different formats.

Independent Claim 20 and Dependent claim 21

Oracle teaches a method and computer readable medium in a data processing system for processing a document containing an embedded object having a first format corresponding to a first program (i.e. OLE) (see pgs. 2-3), comprising the steps of:

determining whether the first program is an unavailable program (see pg. 17, heading: Converting OLE Objects – 1st paragraph);

when it is determined that the first program is an unavailable program, converting the embedded object into a second format different from the first format that is suitable for use with a second program that is available on the data processing system (see pg. 17 and 18, headings: Converting OLE Objects and Converting Embedded Objects), and storing the format of the embedded object (see pg. 18, step 5).

Oracle does not specifically teach a first or second identifier wherein the second identifier can replace the first identifier. However, Francis teaches the use of identifiers to identify objects of a format embeddable in the document (see col. 2 lines 52-53 and col. 4 39-67 et seq.) for the purpose of associating and identifying different embedded objects in a document. Furthermore, it is well known to those of ordinary skill in the art that a first identifier can be replaced by a second identifier for the purpose of converting a first object format into a second object format.

9. Claims 22-24, 29, 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oracle Forms ® Advanced Techniques (“Oracle”), Ch. 10, pgs. 1-18, © 1996 Oracle Corporation (available at <http://mates.ms.mff.cuni.cz/oracle/doc/forms45/at/ch10.htm>

Art Unit: 2176

Claim 22

See the rejection of independent claim 1.

Claims 23 and 24

Please refer to the rationale relied upon to reject independent claim 1.

Claims 29 and 34

Oracle teaches the method and computer readable medium of claims 26 and 31, but does not specifically teach the document being loaded into memory. However, it was commonly known to those of ordinary skill in the art and would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to load documents into memory for the purpose of storing data for later retrieval.
